

Repsol approves organizational changes

Marcos Fraga has been appointed new head of Repsol's Corporate Communication and Marketing Department, which integrates the Communication, International Communication and Transformation and Corporate Marketing departments, as well as the Digital Communication unit.

He also assumes responsibility for the Chairman's Office and reports directly to Repsol's Chairman and CEO, Antonio Brufau and Josu Jon Imaz, respectively.

The General Manager of Energy Transition, Sustainability and Technology, and Deputy CEO, Luis Cabra, takes over responsibility for the Audit, Control and Risk Department -which reports to the Board of Directors- and the Institutional Relations and Regulatory Coordination Department, and the Chief Financial Officer, Antonio Lorenzo, takes over the Insurance Department, which until now reported to Luis Cabra.

These changes follow the departure of Arturo Gonzalo, until now General Manager of Communications, Institutional Relations and Chairman's Office, who is leaving the company for personal reasons after an extensive professional career. Repsol's Chairman, Antonio Brufau, thanked Arturo Gonzalo for his work during these years.
