Repsol chairman, Antonio Brufau, received the "Social Entrepreneurship LABC" award, which is granted by the Latin American Business Council (LABC). This award acknowledges the social work carried out in the region that has positive impact on community growth and development.

The award ceremony, which was introduced this year, took place within the IX Ibero-American Business Summit, held in Panama and that this year has been developed as a prelude to the Ibero-American Summit of Heads of State and Government.

Antonio Brufau has been selected by LABC for the "commendable work that replicates our goals for the integration, economic support and social development of society".

The IX Ibero-American Business Meeting Innovation and Enterprise Awards was attended by His Royal Highness the Prince of Asturias, Spanish Prime Minister, Mariano Rajoy and the Presidents of Panama, Ricardo Martinelli; Paraguay, Horacio Cartes and the Dominican Republic, Danilo Medina as well as other political and business authorities. It is a unique event that brings together leading entrepreneurs from the region and the Iberian Peninsula, and that this year has been developed as a prelude to the XXIII Ibero-American Summit of Heads of State and Government.

In addition to receiving the award, Antonio Brufau has participated in one of the IX Ibero-American Business Meeting discussion panels, called "Opportunities and Experiences in Business Integration". The Repsol chairman and the other participants on the panel discussed the entrepreneurs as key actors in integration.

During the IX Ibero-American Business Meeting Innovation and Enterprise Awards, Brufau had the opportunity to deliver the Ibero-American Award for innovation and entrepreneurship in the Projects category, which this year has gone to BIOGASPLUS. This project was one of those selected in the second edition of the Repsol Foundation Entrepreneurs' Fund to carry out a maturing process, which provides financial support and technical advice for a year
