A year after the confiscation of YPF

As we approach the first anniversary of the confiscation of YPF, media, international institutions, and experts have all commented on the country's economic downturn, which has been caused to a large extent by the illegal actions against Repsol and the fact that no resolution to the dispute has been reached.

Following the confiscation of YPF, Repsol took significant steps to strengthen its balance sheet and to maintain an investment-grade rating, the most important measure being the sale of LNG assets. Furthermore, during 2012, Repsol delivered solid results and continued delivering good operational progress, such as the execution of four out of its ten key growth projects from the 2012-2016 Strategic Plan.
